Area Students Are Honored By ACE and City Council

by Barbara Hopkins

The Greenbelt City Council shared many proud moments Monday night, May 14, with students, families, teachers and other school staff, as well as representatives of the county and state, as council opened its regular meeting by presenting the ACE student awards. Members of the Greenbelt Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) presented their seventh annual awards to students from Greenbelt's neighborhood schools. In opening remarks, ACE Chair, Leta Mach, summarized the special contributions made by the winning students. She told them they "exemplify the spirit of Greenbelt — a spirit of working together for the good of your community." For the first time, two sisters were to receive the award, she said.

Participating in the ceremony with the city council and ACE members were Senator Leo Green, Delegates James Hubbard and Joan Pitkin, County Councilwoman Audrey Scott and District 2 School Board Representative Jim Henderson. Each student received four proclamations: one from the state senators, one from the delegates, one from the County Council, and another from the City of Greenbelt. All award winners were also invited to march in the Labor Day Festival Parade in September to receive further recognition of their accomplishments.

The student awardees were also presented with two flags, one representing the state of Maryland and the other from Prince George's County. After reading the senate proclamation that each student received, Green remarked that he presented the state flag to help the student remember the occasion, but also in the hope that he or she might consider a political career, where the future requires the type of bright, dedicated citizen being honored this night. Two students from Eleanor Roosevelt High School also each received a small scholarship.

In addition, each elementary and middle school student received a book certificate from Bookland in Beltway Plaza. Mach reminded those present that ACE sponsors a Buy-A-Book program at that store. She suggested it would be a good choice for parents looking for that special end-of-the-year gift for a teacher or principal. Bookland has a list of books desired by local schools that customers can purchase for a particular school.

After each award was presented, Mach asked the child's parents, family, friends, teachers and principals in attendance to

by Mary Moien

The annual meeting of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) was held on Wednesday May 16. Approximately 130 voting members were present, although the total attending was larger due to families attending together. This figure was about the same as the last annual meeting. As there were an equal number of vacancies on the Board of Directors as there were candidates, all candidates were elected. They are incumbents Betty Deitch, Julia Eichhorst, Chuck Hess and Susan Ready. The new board member is Joyce Abell. The three candidates for Audit Committee were also all elected. They are Gail Alexanderwicz, Hopi Auerbach, and Kris White.

Grant Awarded

There was a surprise announcement by GHI General Manager, Gretchen Overdurff. GHI and the City of Greenbelt have just been awarded a grant to facilitate Greenbelt seniors remaining in their homes as they age, by developing an "assistance in living" program. The project

State Highway Funds May Be on the Way for 193

by Al Geiger

Greenbelt Road (MD 193) from US 1 to Soil Conservation Road is under study as a candidate for the Maryland State Highway Administration's Neighborhood Conservation Program. The Neighborhood Conservation Program (NCP), part of Governor Glendening's Smart Growth Initiative, provides funds for roadway and aesthetic improvements in established neighborhoods to support revitalization of these areas.

At a public meeting on May 31, representatives of the State Highway Administration (SHA) explained the purpose and scope of NCP to representatives from Greenbelt, College Park and Berwyn Heights, the three cities affected by the proposal. Planning Director Celia Craze was Greenbelt's representative.

Kenneth Goon, representing SHA, enumerated potential project objectives and goals but emphasized that this would be the local communities' project and not SHA's. There was considerable input from residents of the three municipalities.

Bicycle Compatibility

One element of the project would be the creation of a bicycle-compatible roadway. The part of Route 193 under study has generally poor bike access, especially at Kenilworth Avenue (MD 201) and over the CSX Bridge. Solutions might entail relocating curbs and gutters or re-striping narrower lanes to create a wide outside lane to accommodate bicycles. SHA will evaluate connecting 193 to existing bike paths and extending bike paths along Cherrywood Lane and west to US 1.

Pedestrian Safety

Another element is the improvement of pedestrian access and safety. Pedestrian crosswalks along the corridor will be evaluated for such things as light timing, the need for road-center refuges and ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) compliance. At present there are no crosswalks at Eleanor Roosevelt High School or Greenbelt Middle School.

The location of bus stops and the need for sidewalks to them was discussed. It was noted that there are no state standards for bus stops and better coordination with Metro is needed.

Improved Conditions

Traffic capacity enhancement is not an element of the project. However, "the evaluation of existing pavement conditions, peak-hour traffic flow and such things as lane continuity and other safety factors can then be coordinated with engineering," said SHA District Engineer Charles K. Watkins.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the Editor

Every now and then the News Review receives a letter to the editor which the author, for one reason or another, has neglected to sign. Some of these letters present valid points of view, worth discussing in the public forum which this newspaper provides to the community. Unfortunately, we cannot publish such letters unless we know who wrote them. We may, if circumstances warrant, withhold the name of someone who wants to preserve his anonymity, but we must know the author in order to honor such a request.

Thanks for All Points of View

It was Jesus who said to His disciples "who do you say that I am?" And Peter answered "Thou art the Christ." Mark 8:29. It was the "religious" ones and nonbelievers reacting to social opinion and official pressure who thought Him a lunatic, a blasphemer, a sinner. The artist often paints to stimulate the thinking of the observer, as in this case, and not to express his own beliefs. Both Catholics and Protestants have, out of ignorance, counted Jesus, the Messiah, as crazy.

I agree with Peter, Jesus is the Lord, the living son of the living God.

Thank you, News Review, for expressing all points of view.

Unsigned Letters

To News Review Readers:

Please be aware that although the News Review now prominently displays an email address on its masthead, this cannot be used to submit Letters to the Editor for publication. Don't be fooled by the statement in the "Deadlines" section that states "Materials for publication may be mailed to the address above..." — though USPS and email addresses appear next to each other in the same type face, by "address above," the editors mean USPS address, period.

I learned this the hard way when I emailed them a letter about the recent censorship of art at the New Deal Café. I was trying to get the letter there in time to meet the next week's publication deadline after a holiday weekend with no USPS mail delivery.

In short, my letter was not published because I emailed it.

Contrary to my anticipation, the News Review staff didn't read their email before the next deadline. And when the letter eventually reached the assistant editor, it was so close to the next deadline that she called me on the phone to state the requirement that if I still wanted it published, I had to make an extra trip in person to the News Review office to put my handwritten signature to the letter. The email letter did contain my typed signature and other identification, but that was insufficient. Seems the News Review was concerned I was not a real person, though I have lived at the same Greenbelt address for 15 years, am listed in the phone books, and as her call clearly demonstrated, was quickly reachable by phone.

So if you want to get a letter published, be sure to print it out or scribble it longhand. The News Review staff will then have to retype it, but apparently they have an abundance of time and energy to do that. And for goodness sake, don't fail to hand sign it. (No word on whether it has to be your real name, or how they'd know ... just as long as you sign it!)

Would someone less jaded than I please take these folks a Greenbelt Millennium Passport and welcome them to the 21st Century?

Marti Scheel

Editors Note: Thanks to Marti Scheel for making the point often overlooked by readers despite notice on the News Review internet site (<http://www.greenbelt.com/newsreview>) and occasional box on page two to the effect that letters must be signed. With the advent of more electronic information transmissions, this issue is again under consideration by the News Review board but the requirement currently is that all letters be signed. Among changes under consideration are telephone confirmation with the writer of every letter to be run in the paper, for the very reason suggested by Scheel — we cannot usually be sure any other way of who the writer is. For the protection of letter writers on controversial subjects and the paper, until we are satisfied we have an acceptable alternative, signatures are still required. The nuisance factor for email letter writers may mean a delay in printing but will not prevent a letter from being used when the signature or confirmation is obtained. Any change in this policy will be announced in the paper as we deal with the issue of handling electronic letters to the editor.

A Matter of Taste

I found the "Lake Needs Buffer" letter in last week's News Review to be most unfortunate. The people whose yard ornamentation was deemed objectionable are dedicated members of our community. To cast aspersions on their taste simply because their yards border a public space is not the best way to foster positive relations. These people pay substantial property taxes for the privilege of living on the lake. I am glad to see people taking over ownership of these homes, rather than displacing their tax dollars to "prestigious" Montgomery County.

Perhaps we could celebrate differences. Having homes on the lake makes it a safer place for walking. Far more offensive to me is the litter left behind by some of the "laughing fishermen" and other recreationalists. While beauty is in the eye of the beholder, it is a slippery slope to suggest restrictions on what constitutes good taste.

Need to Explain

I want to apologize to Mr.

Settle for not informing him in advance of our City Council's busy agenda. He attended once before, when it was the Astronomy Club that packed the room, and was heard early. This is just one of the many things that visitors unacquainted with the ways of our City Council need to know. I invite anyone interested to join me and city staff in producing a pamphlet explaining as much as we can of the ins and outs of appearing before City Council. This should help other newcomers to feel at home and conduct their business expeditiously.

Doug Love

Ashamed

It is times like this that make me ashamed to be a Greenbelter... Shortly before John Settle was lectured by Ed Putens, he was at the Northway field teaching my friend Bob Anderson to operate his first telescope. He left Bob under the tutelage of another club member so he could attend the council meeting. John had also visited Bob days earlier at his Plateau Place home to help him set up the telescope.

I am not yet a member of this club, but I know that any time there is an eclipse or other stellar event, all I have to do is go to the Northway site and club members will be glad to help me and anyone else, regardless of age, experience, or place of residence, learn about astronomy.

I agree with John that the City Council needs to mind its manners if it doesn't want to discourage public participation. Ed's lecture is an excellent argument for term limits. Maybe a newcomer to the Council would still remember what it's like for a lone citizen to petition the five-member council from its bully pulpit ...

It is laudable that Ed wants to be sure that city taxpayers get their money's worth ...

But, for citizens to prepare for such a discussion, we need to know the same information about each of the 12 groups seeking contributions of money or services. For starters, we need to know three numbers: the percentage of current Greenbelters on the membership rolls, the amount of money requested; and the amount approved.

Since Ed asked the percentage of each group, it is only fair that the News Review and Council publicize the figures for each group to give objective measures to judge by, alongside subjective comments about each group's worth and unique considerations. Yet the News Review listed the percentages for only nine groups. I can see that the percentage might be irrelevant for the Labor Day Festival committee, but it is as relevant for the Golden Age Club and the concert band as it is for the astronomy club ...

As for the $80,300 in total requests, the Review gives dollar amounts totaling only $23,200, requested by four groups. Who is asking for the other $57,000 and how is it broken down? I expect that all 12 groups are using the money wisely and to Greenbelt's benefit. I have enjoyed the benefits of many of these groups and the arts center is one of the reasons I moved here.

I also agree with Ed that — in the right setting — it is fine to ask questions and from time to time re-evaluate the city's support of groups and its guidelines for such support.

It is also reasonable to question whether groups like the four with the lowest percentages of Greenbelters — the senior softball team, the concert band, the aquatic boosters, and the arts center — shouldn't seek support from other municipalities as well as from Greenbelt ...

And maybe every group is doing us a favor just by carrying the Greenbelt name, attracting new residents because of the variety of activities offered — whether it be concerts or stargazing or live plays.

The News Review tells us both the percentage of Greenbelt members and the amount requested for only four groups: the astronomy club, the writer's group, the Boys and Girls Club, and the senior softball team. Knowing these figures, I can easily judge that I should only have cost/benefit concerns, as Ed does, about the softball team. For all the groups, I still say, "Thanks for making Greenbelt great!"

I can't make the cost/benefit judgment for any of the others because the Review didn't give me the information about them that it gave for the four I named.

And that is just as unfair as Ed's treatment of John Settle.

Tiff Not the Issue

In recent weeks a series of letters has appeared regarding comments made at a recent City Council meeting by Councilman Ed Putens and Greenbelt Astronomy Club President John Settle. Personally, I was not present at the meeting in question. Thus, I feel it would be inappropriate to comment on their exchange. Unfortunately, the important issue here is getting lost in the debate as to whether the two gentlemen's statements and actions were appropriate. That important issue is whether or not the city is going to support and aid in the establishment of an observatory.

Greenbelters should realize that the gift of a pre-built observatory dome will probably prove unique. If the city cannot take advantage of this opportunity, it is unlikely that another group will consider making such a gift. Furthermore, if the observatory is not built under the current circumstances, the Astronomy Club may drop this long time goal.

Personally, I have lived in Greenbelt for 13 years, and during that time have found that it is a special city with many wonderful opportunities and features. However, I moved here because I have had a life long interest in astronomy and space, and I wished to pursue employment at Goddard Space Flight Center. If Goddard were not here, it is unlikely that I would have established residency here. That is probably true for many other Greenbelters. Please do not tell us that one of our passionate pursuits is not worthy of support by our fine city.

Caribbean Dancers Present Workshop

by Chris Cherry

Island rhythms, tropical music, exhilarating dances, calypso, salsa, reggae, drums — sound inviting? The music and movement of the islands are coming to the Greenbelt Community Center on Friday, June 22, when the Pocomania Caribbean Dance Company of Chicago will present a workshop for those interested in West Indian dance and culture. Wendy Emanuel, who teaches Caribbean Folk Dancing for the Greenbelt Recreation Department, invited Pocomania to present the workshop in Greenbelt.

"The heritage of West Indian dance integrates elements of Caribbean 'roots,' tribal African dance, Brazilian styles, Latin motion and other ethnic influences, creating a melting pot of explosive Caribbean technique," said Emanuel. Greenbelters who have taken Emanuel's Monday evening classes at the Community Center report that Caribbean dance is an invigorating workout as well as a joyous art form.

Emanuel is delighted to have convinced a leading Caribbean dance company to present a workshop in Greenbelt. Pocomania was founded in 1990 by Horace Brown, who came to the United States from Jamaica in 1978 as the lead dancer of the West Indian Folk Dance Company. Brown has performed on the Oprah Winfrey show and in dozens of venues in the U.S. and Jamaica. He is also a master drummer, playing the conga and bongo drums.

The workshop will be held from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Community Center gymnasium. There is a fee. For more information about the Pocomania workshop or Wendy Emanuel's Caribbean dance classes, call the Community Center at 301-397-2208.

Star Parties View Mars, the Red Planet

The Greenbelt Astronomy Club will hold two star viewing parties at Northway Fields. Weather permitting, they will be held on Saturday, June 16 and 23 beginning at approximately 8:30 p.m. and lasting into the night. The planet Mars is at its closest to earth since 1988 and is spectacular in an amateur telescope. Few astronomical objects have inspired the mind of humanity as much as the "Red Planet" so do not miss this opportunity to see it at its best.

Families with children, scout groups and seniors are welcome to attend. Optimal viewing time now is after 11 p.m. Remember if skies are mostly overcast, the event will need to be rescheduled. Star parties will go ahead if evenings are partly cloudy.

La Leche Meets

The La Leche League of Greenbelt will meet at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, June 19 at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 6905 Greenbelt Road. The topic of the meeting is "Becoming a Mother: Changes, Adjustments, and Needs." Pregnant and breastfeeding mothers are invited to attend. Babies are welcome. For more information call Mary at 301-345-4589.

Ribbon Cutting Set

— Wed., June 20, 7:30 p.m., Architectural & Environment Committee.

The Pet Subcommittee will meet Wed., June 20 in the lunchroom at 7:30 p.m.

A free informational seminar about GHI will be held for prospective members on Saturday, June 16, at 11 a.m.

Astronomy Club Holds Telescope Raffle

The Greenbelt Astronomy Club has started earlier this year to sell raffle tickets for a Meade telescope to be awarded during the Labor Day Festival. Club Vice-president Doug Love will be selling "Thank you" chances at Roosevelt Center this Sunday afternoon. Club shirts also will be on sale. The funds raised will help to build an observatory for club and public use.

Blood Drive Donors Sought

The next scheduled blood drive sponsored by the Greenbelt Recreation Department and the American Red Cross will be held at the Greenbelt Municipal Building Council Room on Monday, June 25 from 2 to 8 p.m. All are encouraged to donate in this period of urgent need for blood.

A Review

What the Butler Saw

by Drake Allen

What the Butler Saw, the current play at the Greenbelt Arts Center, is billed as a sexual farce; it left me exhausted by the end of the first act. An almost constant barrage of sexual innuendos and plays on words was delivered mostly by Miss Prentice, a role played by brunette goddess Denise Leviau.

This overindulgence in verbal repartee is tempered by the visual stimulation achieved by Leviau's bustier. Her statuesque presence is counter-pointed by the petite and eye-catching character of Geraldine, portrayed by the very lovely Kim and her blue lingerie. During act two, the increasingly convoluted plot becomes more and more saturated with psycho-sexual diagnoses in a manner suggestive of a cross between William Shakespeare and Mel Brooks courtesy of the state mental health officer, Dr. Rance, played by Steven Cox. (Did I mention this play is set in England?)

Finally a bizarre attempt is made to relieve the verbally induced bewilderment by now confounding the audience. Suddenly everything unravels in a denouement resembling A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum.

For people who like stories with overt sexuality and bawdy humor this play will satisfy that taste. Judging from the reaction on opening night, the audience liked this play.

Free Folk Dancing Session Scheduled

by Nelda Young

Ever wondered why people sign up to take folk dance classes? While in college Jane Jaworski did some folk dancing. When Jaworski read about Roland Forbes' Greenbelt international folk dance classes a few years ago, she remembered how much fun it was and signed up. She has been dancing on Friday nights ever since.

About seven years ago Jane met Richard Menis in Greenbelt T'ai Chi classes. In due course Jane invited Richard to join her for a session of folk dance classes. One thing led to another. In June of 1998 they married. As a wedding present Forbes choreographed a dance for them called "Dick and Jane." Yes, Richard and Jane Menis who live on Ridge Road in Old Greenbelt are still dancing with the group.

On Friday, June 22 the public is invited to a free evening of folk dance at the Youth Center. Bring a friend if desired, but partners are not required. If it's fun, sign up for the next eight-week session which starts on June 29. A modest fee is charged for the classes.

Farmers Market Is Open for Business

People who are looking for fresh fruit, vegetables and plants that are reasonably priced can visit the open air farmers market located in the parking lot of the Herbert Wells Ice Rink/Ellen Linson Swimming Pool, 5211 Paint Branch Parkway, College Park. It is open every Saturday from 7 a.m. to noon through November 17. For further information call 301-277-3717; TTY 301-454-1493 or www.pgparcs.com.

Choir Offers Concert At Mishkan Torah

The 24-member Mishkan Torah choir will give a concert at the synagogue on Sunday, June 17 at 7 p.m. The program offers a diverse array of songs in English, Hebrew, and Yiddish, including familiar selections from Schindler's List and Fiddler on the Roof and a few instrumental pieces. The group is directed by Becky Silverstein.

Light refreshments will be served during the intermission. Mishkan Torah is located at 10 Ridge Road. There is a fee.

Greenbelt CARES

The week of May 28 Teresa Smithson held the last sessions of the seventh and eighth grade discussion groups at Greenbelt Middle School. Students from both groups joined together to enjoy pizza, and a discussion of what they gained from being members of the group. The groups are co-led by seventh grade guidance counselor DeVonne Johnson, and eighth grade guidance counselor Wayne Davis.

FUNDS

Other Elements

Opportunities for landscaping and other visual improvements, such as billboard removal, will be evaluated. The question of who would pay for such things as removing poles from the middle of sidewalks or the very expensive underground placement of electric and phone lines was discussed. Watkins said the SHA would pay, for instance, for basic lighting improvements but that money for anything "fancy" would have to come from other funds.

Gateway enhancement, including lighting, landscaping and signage will be considered, as will the protection of historical legacies, such as Greenbelt Middle School. Ease of maintenance must be considered for all elements.

As explained by Goon, there would be three phases of the project. First, the study and plan approval; second, selection of candidates for design-prioritizing and vying for funds; and third, construction, either complete elements or phased-in.

is called Naturally Occurring Retirement Communities and GHI fits the profile. Overdurf commented that the program applies to "communities like ours where people have lived there so long they've gotten older but want to stay." The city will be awarded $130,000 over a two-year period but the funds will be used to assist GHI residents, although the outcomes can be applicable to all Greenbelters.

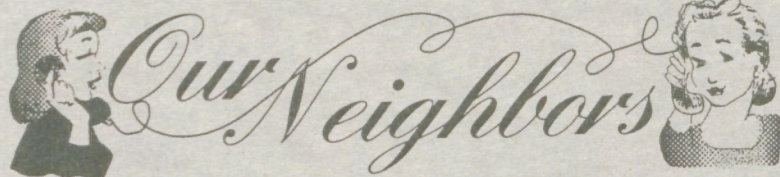

The grant will be used to hire a community resource advocate, hopefully a person with a degree in social services who "understands the culture of the community and with good people skills." Some possible activities for this person include working with the city, Meals on Wheels, GIVES (Greenbelt Intergenerational Volunteers), and other groups to document what services are available to the residents and to help the elderly make informed choices about what is available. Another possible project is to explore options for members to retrofit their homes to serve them better. The advocate will report monthly to both GHI and to the city council. More details will be available in the near future.

N&E Committee

All five positions on the Nominations and Elections Committee are filled annually. Three people had already filed as candidates — Roger Brown, Andy Carruthers, and Andy Nitz. The bylaws allow the N&E committee to accept nominations at the meeting. Konrad Herling and Debbie Cooley were nominated from the floor. Then all five candidates were elected by acclamation.

Bylaw Changes

There were several bylaw changes to be voted on at the meeting. Some were wording changes to clarify voting eligibility by non-profit organizations, which may own one or more shares of the cooperative. It was approved that a non-profit, including religious, organization is eligible for one vote even if more than one unit is occupied. The other changes, all passed, were related to clarifying steps taken when there are not sufficient candidates at the annual meeting for PFC Rabiuta Akinlolu of Village Park Drive recently completed entrance processing at the Military Entrance Processing Station, Baltimore, and became a member of the Maryland Army National Guard. PFC Akinlolu is assigned to Co C 729th FSB and will report to basic training where she will be taught skills common to all soldiers of the modern U.S. Army before moving on to Advanced Individual Training as a medic.

the positions of board of directors or audit committee. If a vacancy remains, the board of directors will announce the vacancy and seek interested parties. The board will then select a person to fill the vacancy.

Other Business

Julia Eichhorst chaired the meeting. She commented that it appeared that there were many new faces in the crowd. At her request, those who were attending their first meeting raised their hands. It represented maybe as many as one-fifth. Then she asked who had attended the very first GHI annual meeting. Long-time member Bruce Bowman raised his hand and was recognized by the audience. Eichhorst made other announcements. She thanked Keith Jahoda for his many years on the board. Jahoda chose not to run for re-election this year and Eichhorst commented that he "had his hands full with new twins," which might have influenced his decision. Margaret Hogensen was honored as the "Committee Person of the Year" and Eichhorst detailed the many committees and boards that she had participated on.

The meeting ended with a drawing for a number of door prizes from the Co-op Grocery Store and the New Deal Café. Voting for the board and audit committee took place after the meeting and continued the next day.

Ralph and June Webb of Ridge Road welcome their new granddaughter, Genevieve Anne Murphy. Genny was born June 8, 2001 at Brigham & Women's Hospital in Boston at 12:15 a.m. weighing 8 lb. 12 oz. The daughter of former News Review staffer, Helen Webb, and Chris Murphy, she joins big sister Erin Helen Murphy. Proud grandmother June is visiting her daughter and her family in Malden, Massachusetts.

Four teachers from Greenbelt Elementary School have been nominated for the Disney Outstanding Educator Awards. Barbara Packer, first grade teacher; Angela Payne, second grade teacher; Shelley Lappi, third grade teacher and Pam Bauer, fifth grade teacher were all nominated by parents.

Congratulations to Andrew B. Chambers, Eleanor Roosevelt High School who has been selected as a delegate to the 2001 Maryland Youth Leadership Forum. He will attend the forum at Bowie State University in July.

PEDESTRIAN AND BIKE SAFETY TIP

GREENBELT CELEBRATES
WALK SMART DRIVE SMART

PROBLEM:

When crossing the street, you may be "screened" from the driver's view by another car, a bus, or even a bush or a mailbox.

ADVICE:

Bicyclist/skateboarders etc. should get off their bike and walk it across the street.

Make sure all cars have stopped before you step off the curb.

If a car has stopped, don't assume that an overtaking car will also stop. That driver may not even know that you're there.

Always STOP at the outside edge of any "screen" and LOOK around it for cars that might be coming.

Be especially alert if you step in front of a stopped bus because, due to its size, it's even harder for an overtaking driver to see you.

Getting Along Together

Article Features Phyllis Richman

Phyllis Richman, the former restaurant critic of the Washington Post is featured in a front page article of the May issue of the "Senior Beacon," a weekly newspaper published in the Washington area. She was a restaurant critic for the Washington Post and estimates that during her career she wrote more than 7,000 restaurant reviews, according to the article by Barbara Ruben. For many years Richman dodged photographers, to conceal her identity from local restaurateurs.

Now Richman has moved on to a new career; writing mystery novels with culinary themes. Her third book, "Who's Afraid of Virginia Ham?" will be published by Harper Collins.

Richman grew up in Greenbelt and began her writing career as an intern for the Greenbelt News Review.

Her previous books include "The Butter Did It," and "Murder on the Gravy Train." Her sleuth, Chas Wheatley, is a female restaurant reviewer whose career resembles Richman's own.

Red Light Cameras Went Live May 23

According to memorandums to the council from City Manager Michael P. McLaughlin and Police Chief James Craze, the red light cameras ordered for eight intersections in the city have had a trial run. McLaughlin said the cameras went live on May 23. Over a three-day period the cameras took 142 photographs. Of these, 68 represented valid violations for which citations could be issued. However, enforcement will not begin until July 1.

The fine for a violation is $75. If the trial run rate would hold up for a year, the city would issue over 8,800 citations with fines totaling over $663,000.

Accreditation Team Will Visit Hospital

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations will conduct an accreditation survey of Doctors Community Hospital on June 26-28. The hospital's home health care program will be surveyed June 27 and 28.

The commission will be evaluating whether the hospital meets certain quality of care and safety standards. Anyone believing that he or she has pertinent information about such matters may request an interview with commission representatives. Requests for interviews must be made in writing and should be sent to the commission no later than five working days before the survey begins and must indicate the nature of the information to be provided. Requests should be addressed to: Division of Accreditation Operations, Accreditation Service Specialist, Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations, One Renaissance Boulevard, Oakbrook Terrace, IL 60181.

NARFE Meets

The next meeting of New Carrollton NARFE Chapter 2146 will be at 1:30 p.m. on Wed., June 20 at the Municipal Center, 6016 Princess Garden Pkwy., New Carrollton. It will be a catered luncheon and reservations are required by Friday, June 15. For reservations and information call 301-731-9020.

stand for acknowledgment of their role in fostering the education process in these exemplary students. After the awards were presented, Mayor Judith Davis congratulated the winners and encouraged them to thank their parents, teachers and principals for the help she felt sure they had provided "somewhere along the line."

The students honored with the ACE Award were:

Daniel Rehner, a sixth grader, has been on the Honor Roll with straight A's and his teachers say he "strives to achieve the best in all subjects." He also participates in all activities and is willing to help other students and teachers.

Phoenix Smith is also a straight-A student. She is described as a class leader who helps her fellow students and also the teachers at the school. Phoenix is in the sixth grade.

Springhill Lake

Geraldo Escobar is a fifth grade student at Springhill Lake Elementary School who is said to accept responsibility for his learning. He has made great efforts to improve both academically and socially this past school year and has assumed a leadership role with students new to the school.

Urja Shah is a politically and socially involved fifth-grader who maintains an excellent academic record. She chairs the school's peace initiative and volunteers in the media center. She also represents the school at county-level meetings.

Magnolia Elementary

Ricky Zein is in the sixth grade. His grades reflect a high work ethic and willingness to study hard. He serves as a peer mediator at the school and also serves as mentor to a group of second graders.

Connie Lee sets herself high goals and achieves an academic record that shows it. She is described as self-motivated and willing to help others have an opportunity "to shine."

St. Hugh's School

Gregory Bistany is in eighth grade and is known for his cooperation with other students, faculty and staff. He has worked at the Bingo Booth at the Labor Day Festival for many years. He is also an athlete who participates on many city and school teams.

Abigail Bates is also an eighth-grader and is considered a
